WRITING theme 1.

In fact, many people believe that if they were paid for nothing, they would never work. Is this really the case? Let us look at the situation in detail.

A person of 35-40 years does not work and receives an average salary of 20 000 rubles, which is enough for him/her for a month. What will this person do? Buy the necessary things: food, clothes. He or she also will spend money on medicines and entertainment. It seems that this is an ideal life in which no one does anything, robots do the work, people continue to pay taxes. However a person does not undergo socialization and therefore does not know ~~and cannot~~ ^{how to} contact with other people. Person stayed as a lonely hermit. We all know that people are bio social and cannot live without a society.

In conclusion, we can say that money is not the only reason to go to work. A person goes to work for ^{the} sake of interconnection and communication, what is no less important than money.
